A practical, human approach to workplace wellbeing

This overview is designed for clinics, companies, EAP providers, coworking communities, universities, and wellbeing initiatives interested in psychological support that is warm, credible, and connected to real professional pressure.

The focus is not generic wellness content. The work connects emotional depth with the reality of demanding roles, leadership pressure, international teams, burnout risk, remote work, and organizational change.

1:1 psychological support Confidential support for individuals navigating work stress, burnout, emotional overwhelm, transitions, identity, relationships, and adjustment.	Workshops & talks Practical sessions on burnout prevention, emotional regulation, stress patterns, leadership pressure, communication, boundaries, and sustainable performance.
Workplace wellbeing collaborations Flexible formats for organizations that want support connected to employee wellbeing, EAP-style support, leadership wellbeing, or healthier workplace culture.	Public & research credibility Experience across psychological support, corporate environments, public mental health work, and PhD research connected to wellbeing, leadership, burnout, and work stress.

Possible collaboration formats

Format	Scope	Best for
Introductory workshop	60-90 minutes	Focused session on burnout, stress, emotional regulation, or workplace wellbeing.
Workshop series	2-4 sessions	Structured programme for teams, managers, founders, or international professionals.
1:1 support pathway	By arrangement	Confidential support for individuals or employees who need space to reflect and move forward.
Speaking / panel contribution	Event-based	Psychological perspective for events on mental health, burnout, work stress, leadership, or wellbeing.

Example topics

Burnout before burnout happens	Recognizing emotional exhaustion, stress patterns, and early warning signs before people collapse.
Emotional regulation under pressure	Understanding how stress affects thinking, communication, reactions, and decision-making.
Work stress and boundaries	Practical conversations about pressure, availability, workload, and sustainable ways of working.
Founder support	Support for founders and leaders carrying responsibility for people, performance, decisions, and uncertainty.
International professionals & expats	Support for adaptation, loneliness, identity, transitions, work pressure, and life abroad.
Organizational change	Helping teams stay grounded through uncertainty, transition, growth, restructuring, or shifting expectations.

Why this positioning works

The strongest collaborations usually sit between emotional support and professional reality. People rarely experience burnout, stress, leadership pressure, identity, relationships, and transitions as separate categories. The work is designed to meet that complexity in a way that is understandable, practical, and human.
